These twelve men who are accustomed to out-door exercise and plenty of fresh air can scarcely stand the close confinement to which they have been subjected since the trial began. And why should they be so confined. Is there danger they will be tampered with. Something must be left to the integrity of the jury and that without subjecting them to corporal punishment by close confinement.

ANNUAL OPENING.

Tuesday Was the Day Dedicated to Hats. The Tillman Trial Will Probably Proceed and Ribbons and the Ladies.

The usual milinery opening for the millinery stores was held on Tuesday when pretty hats and ribbons and pretty girls were all aglow. The millinery stores were prettily and tastily decorated and the ladies from the town and the country were in evidence looking at and trying on and ordering their fall and winter hats.

A white hat forchild trimmed in white velvet and mink leads was beautiful. Silk and velvet flowers are very much shown. Quite a number of hats were exhibited with clusters of small birds. Blue, brown and champagne for the street hats will be the leading colors. One very pretty nat at this emporium is Gainsboro shape. > The Riser Millinery Company rejoiced their many friends on Opening Day in a marvelous showing of beautiful styles, especially in the variety of lovely chapeaux prepared for this great autumn festivity. Never before did their little store look so well, it was tastily draped with rich royal purple making a background for handsome ferns, begonias and palms; and never were hats brought out in such rich colorings beginning with the darkest shades and gradually running through the scale into the lightest tints. One had only to peep at them to appreciate the gorgeous color effect of this season's material.

Among the variety of lovely hats we noticed one which was in itself simple elegance. This was made of plush shaded from light champagne to a rich brown, the only trimming being a rosette of dainty little sparrows nestled against the high rolling brim at the left

Another beautiful design was pictured in a large black velvet hat with high crown and broad raceful brimtrimmed with a single handsome ostrich plume. One of the prettiest shown was a shirred velvet hat in dull rose shade, the underbrim showing soft folds of white malene. This was trimmed with roses and foliage that blended perfectly with

At Mimnaugh's the crowd was equally as large and Miss Marye Roche and Miss Nellie LaBarbe were in charge and showed quite a number of very handsome designs in hats, the prevailing color for this season being brown. They have not the room to make the display, but the ladies were charmed with the beautiful designs. There was no attempt at decorations but the dis play of hats was very pleasing.

Hair & Havird have just opened and have not yet gotten their store straightened out, but Mrs. Hair has a beautiful line and is prepared to satisfy the most fastidious taste. Many ladies visited this store and were charmed with the many beautiful degigns and the art displayed.

The millinery opening at Moseley Bros. at Prosperity exceeded the expectations of the most fastidious. The hats were thought to be the prettiest line ever brought to this market. The decorations were of blue and white. With these colors forming the background, palms and ferns displayed here and there, furnished indeed a beautiful picture. The taste displayed by the ladies was very highly complimented. Many beautiful hats were purchased by the customers.

The Colonel said he had been traveling South Carolina about twenty years and had been in the calaboose one time and that Capt. Riley turned him out as soon as his friend P. Rosenberg told him that he was the maker of Harvey's tobaccos. The Colonel contributed a little sample of pretry to his friend ittle sample of poetry to his friend

First Cost Not the Cheapest. The first cost of an article does not necessarily determine its cheapness. For instance, a sack of "Cliften" flour ton" and make a test for yourself. It will prove the truth of this statement.
